A Musical Lineage blessed by Thyagaraja

Lalgudi Srimathi Brahmanandam (violinist), Anuradha Sridhar (violinist) and Shriram Brahmanandam (mridangam artist) hail from a family of musicians which can be traced back to the saint composer Thyagaraja himself. They are descendants of Lalgudi Ramayyar who was the direct disciple of Thyagaraja. This family feels privileged to carry the torch of the "Lalgudi" school of music, a school that embodies perfection, purity and melody. The byword in Indian musical circles for quality and class, the term "Lalgudi" is how South Indians refer to Srimathi's illustrious brother Padma Vibhushan Lalgudi G Jayaraman, the legendary violinist composer to whom the world-renowned western maestro, Yehudi Menuhin, gave away his Italian violin upon hearing him perform at the famous Edinburgh Festival in 1965.
